DEATHS

This young son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Burton, formerly of this city, was buried to death at Lexington last Tuesday. The remains were taken to Berea Friday and interred in the cemetery at that place. The sympathy of many friends here are extended to the bereaved parents in the death of their child.

Mr. Joseph White, an aged and respected citizen of Estill county, died at his home in East Irvine last week. He was 67 years old and his death was due to a growth on the back of his head. Deceased was a native of Estill county and for many years had charge of the lower ferry at Irvine. He was a jovial, whole-souled gentleman and had many friends in Madison who will regret to learn of his death.

Mrs. Harris Pars died at her home on Boggs Lane, aged 74 years. Deceased had been an invalid for several years and her death, while a shock to her relatives and friends, was not unexpected. She is survived by her husband and several children. Her funeral was preached Monday morning by Rev. B. C. Horton, of the Methodist church, followed by interment in the Reigan burying ground on Barnes Mill pike.

Mr. Thomas Stevens, formerly a resident of this county, died at the home of his son, James Stevens, in Dayton, O., last Tuesday and was buried in that city. Mr. Stevens was born at Boonesboro, this county, and was a member of the prominent Stevens family that owned the historic Boonesboro fort. He is well remembered here by many old friends, who will learn with regret of his demise.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Langford have the tenderest sympathy of the entire community in the death Friday night of their seven months old daughter, Ella Lee Langford. The little one had been in delicate health for some time and the tenderest care and ministrations of loving parents could not prolong the life of the jewel that was loaned to them for a short period. The grief-stricken parents may find solace for their grief in the sublime injunction of Him who said: "Suffer the little children to come unto me, forasmuch as they are of the kingdom of heaven." Interment took place Saturday afternoon in Richmond Cemetery.

Friends of that estimable old lady were shocked and grieved to learn Saturday morning of the death the night before of Mrs. Jessie Bowling, who passed from earthly existence to a life eternal beyond the sunset. Mrs. Bowling died at the home of Mrs. Laurena Pigg at Union City, after an illness of only four or five days, she having contracted pneumonia, and her advanced age of 82 years was the great barrier in her battle with the ravages of that most treacherous disease. Deceased was a member of the Old Baptist church and was beloved by all who knew her. Mrs. Bowling was a daughter of Clayton Crawford and Susan Jett, and was the mother of six children, the eldest Richard Bowling, of Nashville, Tenn., who has held for 25 years the post of attorney for the L. & N. railroad. Her second daughter, Eliza, is the wife of Attorney Thos. Jackson, of Beattyville. Little is known of the deaths of the other children, but the youngest daughter, Isabel, is the wife of Dr. Stilling, of London. Mrs. M. C. Covington, a niece, and Mr. Wm. Jett, a nephew, of this county, also survive. The remains were taken to London for interment.

Last Friday morning we had a striking and painful example of the great fundamental truth that "death loves a shining work," as at about 6:30 o'clock news reached this city from Corbin, apprising relatives and friends that Mr. John B. Kennedy (our John) had passed from earthly cares and trials to his eternal reward. On January 29, Mr. Kennedy left Richmond in a blood and bone condition of health, strength, and sturdy young manhood for the land of "Sunshine and Flowers." He visited Jacksonville, East and other points in Florida. After visiting many places in the Southland, he turned his eyes toward his "Old Kentucky Home," and started on his return trip to the land where the sun shines brightest, the sky the bluest, friends the truest, and those scenes nearest and dearest to him. Arriving in Knoxville, Tenn., he remained there a few days, and from that city he went to Middleboro, Ky., where he spent ten days. Thursday night about 10:30 o'clock, he departed from Middleboro and was homeward bound. While on the train he was taken ill. A physician was also on the train at the time and rendered every possible assistance. When the train reached Corbin, Mr. Kennedy was suffering intense pain, his stomach apparently being badly deranged. He was taken from the train and helped into the depot. While sitting in a posture in the depot, Mr. Kennedy sprang to his feet and clapped his hands to either side of his head and gave an awful shriek. Medical aid was summoned and two doctors responded to the call. He was given a hypodermic to alleviate his suffering. He was then carried to a nearby hotel and given every possible attention by the two attending physicians and others, the physicians remaining with him until death claimed its own about 6:30 o'clock Friday morning, as above stated. During the night Mr. Kennedy had seven convulsions, but during the intervals he was perfectly rational and conversed and joked freely with those about him. Upon learning of his death, many rumors were afloat as to the probable cause of his demise. Mr. Wearren Kennedy left on the noon train for Corbin, Friday, returning with the remains of his brother about 7 o'clock the same evening. Mr. Kennedy's death was technically, purely accidental, he having ruptured a blood vessel of the brain, superinduced by the severe strain while in a fit of vomiting. On reaching this city the remains were conveyed to the home of his brother, Mr. Wearren Kennedy, on Smith Ballard street, where funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, thence the burial in the Richmond Cemetery. Rev. E. B. Barnes, pastor of the First Christian church, performing the last sad rites. Deceased was the youngest child of Capt. Joseph H. Kennedy, now a State Guard at the Frankfort penitentiary, and would have been twenty-one years of age in May. His oldest brother, Frank, died just two years ago—in March, and his mother died in June following. John B. Kennedy was a commanding figure. He was a giant physically and intellectually, possessing rare and beautiful traits of character, popular with all and numbering his friends by the score. For several years he was employed by the Gibson Hospital, this city, and had a large acquaintanceship throughout the county and State. The large concourse at his funeral Sunday afternoon and the great profusion of floral offerings were a beautiful testimonial of the high esteem in which he was held by all. He died indeed after a shining mark to the insatiable archer. He is survived by his father, Captain Joseph H. Kennedy, of Frankfort: three sisters, Mrs. C. E. Galoway, of the county, Mrs. Leslie Tipton and Mrs. James Powell, and three brothers, Messrs. Jesse, Wearren and Willis Kenney, of this city, all of whom have the deepest sympathy of everyone in this their hour of deep sorrow.

The tender and deep sympathy of the entire community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Rice in the death of their beautiful little daughter, Abbie Davidson, a darling of only nine months. Death came Sunday night, after an illness of erysipelas, which continued for several weeks. All that loving, patient hands and skilled physicians could do was of no avail and the little soul was called back to the God who gave it, leaving a great break in a loving family circle, whose affection centered around the wee lamb of the flock. The remains were taken to Lancaster Tuesday morning for interment. May God in His great love and mercy comfort the bereaved parents.

A telephone message from Lexington Monday afternoon conveyed the sad intelligence of the death at the Good Samaritan Hospital, in that city, of Hugh R. Tevis, one of Richmond's best-known young business men. The end came after a protracted illness of cancer, with which disease Mr. Tevis had been a constant sufferer for more than a year.

During the past week he was in an unconscious condition and his death had been momentarily expected. Deceased, until a few months previous, was optimistic regarding his condition, but a visit to the most eminent physicians of Baltimore and other cities dispelled all hopes of ultimate recovery.

He was a son of Judge James Tevis and had been connected with the laundry business in this city since a young boy. He was 41 years of age and was a member of Richmond Lodge of Elks, Knights of Pythias, Red Men and Lexington Lodge of Eagles. His body will be brought to this city today, Wednesday, and his funeral will be conducted at the First Presbyterian church by Rev. W. M. Eldridge, pastor of the Kirkville Presbyterian church, on arrival of the 11:40 L. & N. train.

The Richmond Lodge of Elks will have charge of the remains at the Cemetery, where they will be laid to rest by the remains of his parents, who have been dead many years. Deceased is survived by three brothers—David and William, of Seattle, Wash., and Joseph Tevis, of Mexico.

Desperately Ill.

Mr. Lee Maupin, one of Madison county's widely known citizens, is desperately ill at the home of his daughter, near Waco, with little hope for his recovery. His condition assumed an alarming stage several days ago, and unless a change for the better takes place immediately, Mr. Maupin cannot survive many hours.

Richmond's Tobacco Market.

On Friday Feb. 27, closed for the present season the loose leaf tobacco market of our city, this being the fourth year of successful sales held at this place. The market here was opened with the building of the Madison Tobacco Warehouse Company's plant near the Louisville & Atlantic railway station. Then the Farmers Tobacco Warehouse in the east end was organized and backed by a number of our progressive citizens. Two years later the Madison Warehouse people built the commodious and up-to-date steel structure, connecting with the old house by a viaduct across the street. This year the Home Warehouse, a large, steel, up-to-date building, was erected, making three houses here for the handling of loose leaf tobacco, these houses entailing an outlay of possibly some $80,000. This market has been fortunate in the fact that there have been few changes in the buying forces. Mr. John Ivy Smith, the clever buyer for J. P. Taylor & Co., came when our market was first opened; Mr. J. S. Thomas, one of the best, representing L. & M., also came at this time, while Mr. J. S. Leach, the very gentlemanly and polite buyer representing the A. T. Co., has been on this market for three years. Mr. W. P. Judy, the fine gentleman from Millersburg, came this year in place of Mr. J. A. Glenn, representing the interests of R. J. R. Co.; Mr. Charles Stewart, also a popular gentleman, from Winchester, representing O'Brien & Co. All these buyers, without exception, have become identified with our community and have all become well and favorably known to our people. We wish them to know that we are glad to have them with us part of the time, if not all, and with other progressive and interested citizens, appreciate the fact that due to high honor and the excellent judgment of these buyers, Richmond has a tobacco market second to none in the State in point of prices paid for the weed. We think our people hardly realize what this market means to our community. Last year this market sold 6,117,175 pounds of tobacco at a general average of $12.82 per hundred. There was paid out here for this crop $781,227.43. The market this year sold 7,080,000 pounds and the general average is nearly the same as last year, despite the fact that this year's crop was not as good in quality as that of last year. We see, then, that this year there has been paid out for the crop approximately $900,000. This money does not all, of course, find its way into our banks, nor all given in exchange for commodities at our stores, but much of it does, and has made our business better; has made our city assume a more important air; has made property more valuable. These houses furnish employment to approximately 100 men, with a weekly payroll of probably more than $1,000. Now, fellow citizens of the good county of Madison, let's get together, stand together, work together to make this one of the greatest tobacco markets in the State, both in point of prices and pounds, which can be easily done, as it is the natural gateway of the counties east of us, many of which are growing excellent tobacco and more each year, while Garrard county, our western neighbor, together with Lincoln and Boyle, have been large factors in making this market, especially the good county of Garrard.

Mr. Warehouseman and Mr. Buyer—we are with you and are glad to have you with us, and stand ready at all times to lend our assistance to make this market what it should be. There should, be, and no doubt will be, built in the near future a re-drying plant. There is no better quality of tobacco grown in the State of Kentucky or elsewhere than the crops of Madison and Garrard counties. She therefore deserves a place on the map as a leading tobacco market. As to point of color, texture and fineness, Garrard's tobacco would be hard to beat. As to points of general excellence, Madison stands to the fore against all comers.
